THE QUARANTINE COMMISSION BANKRUPT.

The Quarantine Commissioner is bankrupt. The Quarantine Commissioner is bankrupt. The four employee at Swinburne Island and the one at Hoffman Island have received no pay since January I, and now the Board has given them notice that, the Legislature having failed to make any appropriation for the "care and maintenance of the Quarantine establishment," if they remain in their present positions they must rely upon the deficiency being provided for by a tuture Legislature.

Commissioner Nichols said yesterday that the $15.000 voted by the Senate for quarantine failed to pass the Assembly, and that the Commission was wholly without funds. It had been hoped to avert the difficulty by using the $10,000 received from the sale of the steamer N. K. Hookins, but Mr. Judq. the treasurer, took the ground that the act anthorizing the sale of the steamer provided that the money could only be used for the purchase of another vessel. This opinion has been sustained by the State Controller, who decided that the money was not applicable for salaries, nor for the maintenance of quarantine. Mr. Judd believes that the entire quarantine establishment should be self-sustaining. It was learned that there is an outstanding deficiency of several thousands of dollars for salaries to employee, dating back to 1878, under the administration of James McQuade.

APPOINTMENTS BY MR. MCKEON.

APPOINTMENTS BY MR. McKEON.

District-Attorney McKeon yesterday appointed William N. Penney as successor to James F. Roberts, who recently resigned his position as the District-Attorney's private secretary and bond clerk. Mr. Penney has been for many years a journalist connected with several of the daily newspapers. He has won a good reputation in his profession, and his appointment was received with much favor by those having business with the District-Attorney's office. Mr. McKeon, in speaking of his new appointee, said that Mr. Penney had been highly recommended to him and be was sure he had found the right man to fill the place. The appointment was not a political one, but was made, Mr. McKeon said, because he was assured that Mr. Penney would make an honest and efficient officer. The salary of the position is $2,500 a year.

The position of entry clerk, made vacant by the dismissal of Randall Roberts, was filled by the appointment of William you Gerichten, the son of Detective Von Gerichten of the District-Attorney's office.

NO LIGHT ON THE WALDRON ROBBERY. NO LIGHT ON THE WALDRON ROBBERY.
Captain Gunner, of the Fifty-ninth-st. police, said yesterday that he was inclined to doubt Mrs. Waldron's story of a robbery in her rooms at No. 407 East Seventy-eighth-st. Her statements about the three robbers who, as she said, appeared to know where to find what they wanted and belped themselves after frightening her into submission, he regarded as highly improbable. Mrs. Waldron admitted that she wore a diamond ring and diamond earrings at the time and she could not explain how the robbers failed to notice them. Her statement that she screamed loudly before one of the robbers seized her at 4 a. m. was contradicted by another immate of the house who was awake after 3 a. m. Mr. Waldron told the police that he suspected three men who played cards with him in a saloon on a previous night. The men were taken to the police station and confronted with Mrs. Waldron. She said that they were not the robbers and that her husband knew it as well as she did. The men were not held.

Theological Seminary, Philadelphia.

TAKING A GIRL FROM CASTLE GARDEN. Kathrina Kussman, with tears pouring down her cheeks, introduced herself to President Hauseit, of the German Society, yesterday afternoon, and begged that her sister Emma, who had arrived from Havre on the steamship Labrador, might be restored to her. Mr. Hauselt went to Castle Garden and found that the girl had been taken away by a woman claiming to be a firsted, who presented a card upon which was printed, "Salomes Bernhardt, No. 127 Eldridge-st." To Detective Graden, who was detailed to search for the girl, the woman said at first that she knew nothing about the girl and had not been to Castle Garden. That the sessions be instructed that it is their duty to send to the Presbytery a delegate to vote upon the question of the overture in secondance with the wishes of the majority of the seasion; that pending a decision forhearance be exercised toward congregations already using instruments, and that while the overture is pending the said congregation be exercised toward congregations already using instruments, and that while the overture is pending the said congregation be earnestly entreated, for the good of the church and cause, to take no steps toward the introduction of instrumental music into their worship.

This was considered to be a test of the seutiment of the sesembly and resulted: Yeas, 70; mays, 149. An emendment to substitute the minority report for that of the majority was lost without division.

A HINDOO BREAKING HER FETTERS.

Prem The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

One of the most interesting personages expected in this country is Mrs. Anandbial Joshee, a Brahmin lady of nigh social standing, who comes to this city to enter the Women's Medical College for a thorough course of medical study. The fact that Hindoo women are kept in miserable degradation, being ground down by social and religious despotism, renders this step of Mrs. Joshee one of pseuliar importance, in breaking away from the fetters of Hindoo tyranny and soperation and determining to secure for herself all the advantages which are colloyed by women in Christian lands. She is but minoteen years of age, and is the wife of a Brahmin in the Angio-Indian Service, and at present postmaster at terrampore, a liberal and accomplished man who has attended his wife since their marriage. Mrs. Joshee has thus ostrociach herself because she is impressed with the conviction that one of the best means of helping her ser in India is by the promotion of a thorough medical knowledge. In adopting this course of action she ignores the Brahmin creed, which forbids a member of the Order from crossing the ocean, cating food other than that prepared by a Brahmin, or drahing water which has come in center with non-Brahmin water which has some in centeet with non-Brahmin water which has been always the restrictions which involve the ostracum of the offender. ENGLISH ADMISSIONS ON THE TARIFF QUESTION.

Prom The Middlesborough (Eng.) Northeastern Gazette. The New-York Tribenes—has which Horace Greeley made famous and familiar on this side of the Atlantic, and which is still conducted with marked ability and enterprise—has been rendering good service to America, as well as to our own country, by a series of articles on "Industrial England". The writer is Mr. R. P. Porter, who was a leading member of the late Tariff Commission, and has made himself acquainted with our industries by personal and remarkably minute inquiry and observation. Dating from Middlesborough is the early part of this year, Mr. Porter takes a survey of our vast iron and coal districts. Passing over some minor details, he gives a comprehensive and singularly accurate estimate of our mining and manufacturing operations, at the same time fairly gauging their relative position, and describing the outlook with picturesque effect. It is well to see ourselves as others see us; it is well also that our true position should be placed before the manufacturers and geople of the United States; and this the writer has done in a manner and with a success at once parapicuous and convincing. We cannot do better than to reproduce a few passages from Mr. Porter's commustaction, although it is obviously impossible, to exemplify here its fulness and exceptional interest. At this point Mr. Porter and Tue Tribuse. The data and a grave and curious lesson on a delicate and voxed question. their duties willingly.

"A judy in Abington told me she couldn't eat a thing without distress. I told her if she would get a bottle of Hood's Sarasparilla I would pay for it if it didn't cure her. The next time I saw her (six weeks later) she said she could sit down time I saw her (six weeks later) she said she could alt down and eat a hearty meal of victuals without distress. It was the same way with my brother. He couldn't eat anything, he had such pains and distress. He lost fifty pounds. I don't know what he didn't try, but I do know not hing did him any good till he took Hood's Saraaparilia. That not only cured him, but he has regained thirty of the fifty pounds. The doctor told my brother to get Hood's Saraaparilia, and if that didn't oure him he know of nothing that would. In our business on the road, all the time, we come in contact with a great many people, and I venture to say that I know of more than fifty cases of dyspepala, similar to the above, that have been cured by Hood's Saraaparilla."
